

CAMP ENCORE/CODA

SCHOLARSHIP APPLICATION

Updated 10/13/20

Partial scholarships to families with demonstrated financial need are based on financial circumstances, instrument played and space available in the applicant's age and gender group. Processing of applications begins in December and continues into the springtime, and awards are made to players of particular instruments at different points during the year, depending on the camp's need for them. We will make every effort to agree on a workable fee with you to get your camper to camp this summer, and once we are agreed, we will ask you for a deposit. To be considered for a partial scholarship, please send us this page along with the included enrollment form (without deposit), a short musical recording (details are on the enrollment form) and the first two pages of your most recent federal income tax return.

CAMP ENCORE/CODA

2021 - Our 72nd Season!

Enrollment form note to parents

We are so pleased that you are considering enrolling your musical child in Encore/Coda for the coming summer! We are always excited to welcome another young musician to our 'musical family' and would like to bring some things to your attention about our enrollment process:

We use a rolling admissions process, filling available spots in different age, gender and instrumental/vocal groups as the school year progresses, without specific deadline dates. We begin in October and continue into the springtime. Please see the following enrollment form for session dates, payment details, enrollment policies and recording guidance.

We fully expect to operate next summer, with all COVID precautions mandated by the Maine CDC in place. Although it is too soon to know exactly what those will be, we expect that they will include the things that worked so well for the few camps that operated successfully in 2020: testing prior to arrival at camp, testing while at camp, masks, distancing, regular disinfecting in high traffic/high touch areas, open windows, revamped dining procedures, adapted drop off/pick up days, adjusted travel to camp rules, and adapted parents days - if parents days are even possible. If we cannot have regular parent's days, we plan to put together a video of various performances from the final week of the session, which families will be able to enjoy at their leisure once it is posted.

We are also mindful of the fact that COVID presents some very specific challenges to any music program such as ours, but we feel that we can take advantage of our beautiful, outdoor setting to allow the more problematic activities, such as singing and wind playing, to thrive in a socially distanced way. Most of our buildings are quite well ventilated and we expect to use some tents for rehearsals and private lessons as well. Plus, our larger halls are big enough to allow for indoor, distanced rehearsals for many ensembles, that conform to current guidelines.

We are interested in having a personal relationship with all our families, and knowing as much as we can about each individual camper, so we would like to talk with you on the phone about your child, and about camp generally, before you enroll. A phone conversation or Zoom session is a great way for us to exchange information, get answers to specific questions, and develop a sense of each other.

Please email us (jamie@encore-coda.com) to set up a talk time, or call us directly at our school year office in Brookline, MA at 617-325-1541.

We look forward to hearing from you and speaking with you about summer 2021!

Best wishes,

JAMIE and ELLEN

Information concerning any special dietary needs, health restrictions, regularly prescribed medications or history of psychological counseling must be provided in writing and discussed with the director in detail prior to enrollment. Except as stated in writing, parent affirms that applicant is in sound mental condition and able to perform all routine activities to the best of his/her knowledge. Parent gives permission for applicant to use all equipment, take all trips, and participate in all camp activities, except as restricted on the camp health form.

Arranging for travel to and from camp is the responsibility of parents. Detailed information about how to make these arrangements with the camp will be provided in the springtime. During the indicated period of enrollment, campers may only leave camp on a camp trip, or with a visitor or relative over age 21 for whom the parents have sent specific written permission to the director, with the director's permission. Two camp shirts are required for special events and some trips; a clothing list and order blank will be provided by the camp in the springtime. Campers are expected to bring to camp with them any instruments they wish to study during the summer, excluding piano and timpani. Use of the camp phone by campers is only allowed on the camper's birthday or in the case of a family emergency. All pictures, audio and video tapes made of the applicant while in camp, and letters received by the director are the property of the camp, and may be used for promotional purposes. Linking internet postings to Camp Encore/Coda is only allowed with the express written permission of the camp directors.

Camp Encore/Coda is not responsible for the loss of or damage to any camper's property or musical instrument. Information about personal affects and professional musical instrument coverage is available upon request. Parent acknowledges that the camp experience involves risks that are different from a child's home or school experiences and agrees to assume such risks. These risks may be reduced by obeying camp rules. Parent affirms that their child has been instructed by them to obey all camp rules.

In the event of an emergency, parent hereby gives permission to the physician selected by the camp director to hospitalize, to secure proper treatment for, and to order injection, anesthesia or surgery for their child as named above, during the indicated period of enrollment. Parent also gives permission to the camp directors to share information on the camper health form with camp staff members and professional health care personnel as necessary.

A completed camp health history form and documentation of current health insurance is required for all campers, and must be received by the camp no later than one week prior to arrival. Payment for medical care is the responsibility of parents when not covered by their health insurance, or additional coverage provided by the camp.

Use or possession of cigarettes, alcohol, illegal drugs or weapons, or being out of the bunk during sleeping hours for unauthorized activity will result in immediate dismissal. Repeated infractions of the camp behavior code may also result in dismissal.
